Dear Newly Elected Members of Congress,

On behalf of the Institute of Politics, I congratulate you on your recent election and welcome you to the 23rd convening of the Bipartisan Program for Newly Elected Members of Congress. We applaud your commitment to public service and hope to assist your transition to your new and important role.

Since 1972, this program has been an essential part of lawmakers' orientation to the House of Representatives. This program has hosted more than 700 incoming members including future Vice Presidents, Speakers of the House, Majority Leaders, presidential candidates, and Civil Rights champions.

While we will miss your presence in Cambridge this year, we are proud to offer the expertise of Harvard faculty and other policy experts as you begin your service in the House of Representatives. Our program is designed specifically to provide you the opportunity to get to know your colleagues, explore the policy implications of these important topics, and utilize the expertise of our faculty colleagues.

You will be briefed on domestic and global challenges and engage in conversation with Harvard's faculty and other policy experts on topics including fighting COVID-19, rebuilding the economy, America's role in the world, and the effects of the pandemic and economic recession on educational access, food security, criminal justice, and democratic governance.

In addition, we have invited current members of Congress to discuss the transition from the campaign to Capitol Hill, including, Reps. Joe Kennedy JD '09 (D, MA-04), Elise Stefanik AB '06 (R, NY-21), who both serve on the Institute of Politics Senior Advisory Committee. They will be joined by Reps. Dan Crenshaw MPA '17 (R, TX-02) and Ayanna Pressley (D, MA-07).

Congratulations once again on your election to the House. We hope your time with us will provide you the background and inspiration to honor President Kennedy's admonition to act following the right answer while accepting our responsibility for the future.

Mark D. Gearan '78
Director, Institute of Politics
INSTITUTE OF POLITICS

The Institute of Politics at Harvard Kennedy School was established in 1966 as a living memorial to President John F. Kennedy. The Institute’s mission is to unite and engage students, particularly undergraduates, with academics, politicians, activists, and policymakers on a non-partisan basis to inspire them to pursue pathways in politics and public service.

The Institute blends the academy with practical politics and offers students the opportunity to engage in current events and to acquire skills and perspectives that will assist in their postgraduate pathways.

NEW MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

The Institute of Politics began hosting the Program for Newly Elected Members of Congress in 1972 as a way to foster useful interaction between the academic and political worlds. The first Program was a month-long educational session for four Members of Congress. Over the course of 40 years, the IOP has hosted future Vice Presidents, Speakers of the House, Majority Leaders, presidential candidates, and Civil Rights champions.

The program offers one of the few opportunities new members have to get acquainted with colleagues from both sides of the aisle. Since its inception in 1972, more than 700 current and former members have participated.

INTERNSHIPS
The Institute of Politics partners with organizations and elected officials around the world to provide career-oriented, substantive internships for undergraduate students in politics, government, and public service. Through fully-funded internships and stipends, students gain experience in the public sector and develop professional skills that may otherwise be difficult to obtain or finance.

FELLOWS PROGRAM
The Resident Fellows Program has been a cornerstone program since the founding of the Institute of Politics in 1966. Each semester, the IOP invites prominent elected officials, activists, journalists, and public servants to spend a term at Harvard and share their experiences with students exploring important public issues along with a distinguished cohort of their peers.

JOHN F. KENNEDY JR. FORUM
The John F. Kennedy Jr. Forum at the Institute of Politics is Harvard’s premier arena for political speech, discussion and debate. The Forum regularly hosts heads of state, leaders in politics, labor, government, business, and the media.
